Dr. Brad Weslake

Dr. Brad Weslake is an Associate Professor of Philosophy at NYU Shanghai. His research is in the philosophy of science, especially on topics related to causation and explanation in physics and biology. At NYU Shanghai, he has recently been involved in teaching Global Perspectives on Society, a course that all first-year students take as part of the core curriculum.

Vice Provost Charlton McIlwain

Author of the new book, Black Software: The Internet & Racial Justice, From the Afronet to Black Lives Matter, Charlton McIlwain is Vice Provost for Faculty Development & Engagement at New York University, and Professor of Media, Culture, and Communication at NYU Steinhardt. His work focuses on the intersections of computing technology, race, inequality, and racial justice activism. He has served as an expert witness in landmark U.S. Federal Court cases on reverse redlining/racial targeting in mortgage lending, and recently testified before the U.S. House Committee on Financial Services about the impacts of automation and artificial intelligence on the financial services sector. He writes regularly for outlets such as The Guardian, Slate's Future Tense, MIT Technology Review and other outlets about the intersection of race and technology.

Dr. Sheril Antonio

Dr. Antonio is the Interim Chair of the Clive Davis Institute of Recorded Music for Fall 2020, an Associate Arts Professor in the department of Art and Public Policy, and the Senior Associate Dean for Strategic Initiatives. She is the recipient of a 2020 Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Faculty Award. She is an advisor and frequent lecturer whose presentations include: a live online debate about the movie Precious with Stanley Crouch, the Lincoln Center Education Forum, and the NYU Tisch Future Filmmakers Workshop. She serves on the Board of the Ghetto Film School; and has participated in numerous projects with Panasonic Kid Witness News and the NAACP.

Dr. Stephen Duncombe

Stephen Duncombe is Professor of Media and Culture at New York University and author and editor of six books on the intersection of culture and politics. Duncombe, a life-long activist, is currently co-founder and Research Director of the Center for Artistic Activism, a research and training organization that helps activists create more like artists and artists strategize more like activists.
Dr. Ulrich Baer

Dr. Ulrich Baer teaches literature in the College of Arts and Science and photography in the Tisch School of the Arts. Among his books are Rilke’s The Dark Interval, Letters on Life, as well as books on photography, and free speech. He hosts a podcast, "Think About It", on big ideas and great books. Dr. Baer holds a BA from Harvard and a PhD from Yale, and is a University Professor at NYU. He has been awarded Guggenheim, Getty, and Humboldt fellowships, and NYU’s Golden Dozen Teaching Award.

Dr. Vijayavenkataraman Sanjairaj

Dr. Sanjairaj Vijayavenkataraman (Vijay) is an Assistant Professor of Mechanical Engineering at NYU Abu Dhabi. His research interests include Additive Manufacturing, 3D bioprinting, and biomaterials for tissue engineering, regenerative medicine, drug testing, and medical devices applications. He was the recipient of several prestigious fellowships and awards including the President’s Graduate Fellowship for his doctoral studies at National University of Singapore, DAAD WISE Scholarship from Germany, Raman Memorial Award and The Sachivothama Sir C.P.Ramasamy Aiyar Scholarship during his undergraduate years.

Dr. Wendy Suzuki

Dr. Wendy Suzuki is a Professor of Neural Science and Psychology and Director of Undergraduate Studies in the Center for Neural Science at New York University where she studies the effects of physical activity on the brain. She is an award-winning scientist, TED speaker and best-selling author of the book Healthy Brain Happy Life that was recently made into a PBS special. Suzuki is a passionate thought leader, spreading the understanding of how physical activity can change, improve and protect your brain.